NO. 3:19-CV-05902-DWC

AMENDED MOTION TO CONTINUE
TRIAL DATE AND PRETRIAL
DEADLINES

14 Defendant Fidelity National Title Insurance Company (“Defendant” or “Fidelity”) 15 respectfully moves the Court to continue the dates set in the Initial Pretrial Scheduling 16 Order at least 120 days. There is no trial date set in this matter presently, but Fidelity 17 seeks at least 120 additional days on all pretrial dates set now on the Initial Pretrial
18 Scheduling Order relating to discovery, dispositive motions, mediation and trial/trial 19 filings. This Amended Motion is only filed to clarify a background fact learned since 20 filing of the original Motion. Plaintiff has been made aware and consented to the 21 amendment. Womac Decl., ¶ 13.

22
23 A. Factual and Procedural Background

24 This is a recoupment case by Safeco Insurance Company of America (“Safeco” or 25 “Plaintiff”) against Fidelity for legal costs and attorneys’ fees allegedly spent by Safeco

1      defending its insureds, Scott and Debra Dalgleish (the “Dalgleishes”). Beginning in 2      2016, the Dalgleishes were embroiled in litigation with two other neighbors in a dispute
 3      concerning certain real properties located in Hansville, Kitsap County. The litigation 4      was titled Jensen, et al, v. Erickson, et al and Erickson v. Dalgleish, and filed under 5      Kitsap County Superior Court Cause No. 16-2-00712-2 (the “Lawsuit”).

7      Having been named in the Lawsuit as third-party defendants by their neighbors, 8      the Ericksons, the Dalgleishes tendered claims to both their title insurance carrier 9      (Fidelity) and home insurance carrier (Safeco) for a defense in the Lawsuit. In June 10     2016, Fidelity declined coverage and was unable to provide a defense since the matters 11     in the Lawsuit were expressly excepted from coverage under the title policy. Safeco later 12     accepted coverage under its home owners’ policy, and provided a defense in the Lawsuit, 13     which was ultimately settled while an appeal was pending.
 14

15     After the conclusion of the Lawsuit, Safeco entered an agreement with the 16     Dalgleishes for the sole and express purpose of Safeco pursuing recovery of its alleged 17     legal costs and fees expended in the Lawsuit. Declaration of Daniel A. Womac (“Womac 18     Decl.”), Exhibit A. Safeco commenced this litigation against Fidelity on September 25, 19     2019 seeking (1) Declaratory Relief for a finding that Fidelity owed the Dalgleishes a 20     duty to defend them in the Lawsuit (a prerequisite to Safeco being entitled to any relief) 21     and (2) for Equitable Contribution for a share of Safeco’s alleged defense costs in the 22     Lawsuit. Womac Decl., Exhibit B. Fidelity has denied in its Answer that Safeco is 23     entitled to relief under either claim in the instant litigation, and stated affirmative 24     defenses. Womac Decl., Exhibit C.

Safeco served initial disclosures to Fidelity on or about November 26, 2019. Womac Decl., Exhibit D. Fidelity served initial disclosures to Safeco on or about December 4, 2019. Womac Decl., Exhibit E.

Plaintiff and Defendant prepared and filed an Initial Pretrial Scheduling Order (the “Scheduling Order”) for this case on December 6, 2019. Womac Decl., Exhibit G. The Scheduling Order set a discovery cutoff date of June 5, 2020, discovery motion deadline of May 4, 2020, a dispositive motion deadline of June 12, 2020, and mediation deadline of July 3, 2020. Id. Those dates were all agreed upon before either party had knowledge of the impact of safety measures and responses to the COVID-19 pandemic.

In early March 2020 Plaintiff and Defendant attempted to set a tentative date for mediation of the instant litigation to take place in late April, 2020. Womac Decl., ¶ 7. While the parties attempted to engage in informal discovery to reduce costs as they awaited mediation, both parties agreed summary judgment motions would follow a mediation and inquiries were made to the Court about available dates for hearings. Womac Decl., ¶ 8.

On March 6, 2020, right in the middle of setting a mediation date and during the informal discovery discussions, this Court issued General Order Nos. 02-20 and 02-20 (the “Orders”) in response to the growing COVID-19 pandemic, continuing all civil matters that cannot be resolved without oral argument. Womac Decl., Exhibit F. The Orders have since been replaced by General Order Nos. 03-20, 04-20, 07-20 and 08-20 continuing the closure of this Court through July 31, 2020 consistent with the State of Washington’s Stay Home, Stay Safe Order as a result of COVID-19. Id. The Orders have greatly impacted the parties’ ability to abide by the scheduling dates agreed to in

1 December 2019, long before anyone could have imagined the impacts of the Covid-19 2 Pandemic.

3       Despite the impact of the Orders, the parties still pushed forward, to the extent 4 possible, with discovery. With mediation temporarily canceled, on April 14, 2020, 5 Fidelity sent Plaintiff a First Set of Interrogatories and Requests for Production. Womac
 6 Decl., ¶ 11. On May 4, 2020, Fidelity sent Plaintiff First Requests for Admission.
 7 Womac Decl., ¶ 12. At the time of initial filing of this Motion, the undersigned had 8 received no responses to any discovery demands. Id., ¶ 13. However, upon being served 9 copies of this Motion, Plaintiff's counsel informed the undersigned that she had already 10 sent responses to the First Set of Interrogatories and Requests for Production on May 11 14, 2020. Id., ¶ 13. Since the parties have an agreed E-Service Agreement in place, the 12 Responses were emailed but routed by Fidelity's corporate IT team to a 14-day email 13 quarantine protecting against phishing and fraudulent emails. Id., ¶ 13. As a result, the 14 email and Responses were not received by the undersigned on May 14. Id., ¶ 13.
 15 Counsel for Plaintiff has since forwarded the Responses by email, having resent them on 16 May 30. Id., ¶ 13. Additionally, after filing of this Motion, Plaintiff sent Supplementary 17 Responses to the First Set of Interrogatories and Requests for Production, and 18 Responses to the First Requests for Admission. Id., ¶ 13. Fidelity has not had adequate
 19 time to review all the Responses to the Requests, but is concurrently preparing a motion
 20 to Compel Discovery on the Requests for Admission, finding them evasive and 21 incomplete. Id., ¶ 13. Plaintiff has been made aware and consented to the amendment
 22 to the motion and declaration. Id., ¶ 13.

1       In light of the current conditions and considering its request to Plaintiff for a 2 stipulated continuance, Fidelity has not yet made any motion to compel discovery.
 3 Womac Decl., ¶ 14. Plaintiff sent a Request for Production of Documents to Fidelity on 4 or about May 6, 2020, two days after the deadline in the Scheduled Order for any 5 discovery motions. Womac Decl., ¶ 15. Fidelity is preparing responses to those requests
 6 presently. Id., ¶ 16.

8       On May 27, 2020 Fidelity asked Safeco counsel for an agreed stipulation to a 9 continuance of the discovery, dispositive motion and trial deadlines due to the 10 unforeseeable delays caused by COVID-19. Fidelity was told the stipulation would not 11 be recommended to Safeco. Womac Decl., ¶ 17.

12      B. Argument

13      1. Legal Standard

15       Courts have broad discretion to control their own docket, Clinton v. Jones, 520 16 U.S. 681, 706 (1997), and a court may extend the deadlines set forth in its docket for 17 good cause. Fed. R. Civ. P. 6(b). “The decision to grant or deny a requested continuance 18 lies within the broad discretion of the district court, and will not be disturbed on appeal 19 absent clear abuse of that discretion.” United States v. Flynt, 756 F.2d 1352, 1359 (9th 20 Cir.), amended, 764 F.2d 675 (9th Cir. 1985). “There is no abuse of discretion unless the 21 denial was arbitrary or unreasonable.” United States v. Moreland, 622 F.3d 1147, 1158 22 (9th Cir. 2010) (internal citation and quotations omitted). Here, Fidelity’s request for a 23 continuance of the dates set in the Initial Pretrial Scheduling Order is reasonable and 24 based on the unforeseeable discovery challenges posed by the COVID-19 outbreak.

1       The Ninth Circuit considers four factors in deciding motions to continue the trial 2 date: 1) the requesting party's diligence in preparing prior to trial; 2) whether delaying 3 the trial would satisfy the need for the continuance; 3) the inconvenience to the court, 4 the opposing party, and witnesses; and 4) the extent that the requesting party would 5 suffer harm absent the continuance. See United States v. Zamora-Hernandez, 222 F.3d
 6 1046, 1049 (9th Cir. 2000); United States v. Tham, 960 F.2d 1391, 1396 (9th Cir. 1991); 7 Flynt, 756 F.2d at 1359. "The fourth factor is the most critical." Zamora-Hernandez, 8 222 F.3d at 1049; see also Danjaq LLC v. Sony Corp., 263 F.3d 942, 961 (9th Cir. 2001) 9 ("To meet this burden, the challenging party must meet a four-part test, the fourth (and 10 mandatory) element of which requires a demonstration of prejudice."); United States v.
 11 2.61 Acres of Land, More or Less, Situated in Mariposa Cty., State of Cal., 791 F.2d 12 666, 671 (9th Cir. 1985) ("No one factor is dispositive...Absent a showing of prejudice 13 suffered by the appellant, however, this Court will not disturb the ruling below."). As 14 argued below, the instant circumstances meet this test head-on, since this case remains 15 early in discovery, and in light of the COVID-19 challenges, neither party has had 16 ample opportunity to set any depositions or complete the written discovery. The 17 parties have worked well with each other thus far to accommodate each other's 18 schedules and discovery will likely lead to setting a new date for mediation which 19 serves judicial economy. This is the first request for a continuance of any dates, 20 including the trial date, by any party in this case.

21       Moreover, the grant of a continuance where the risk of spreading infectious 22 disease can be avoided by delaying a trial is reasonable and constitutes good cause. See,

1      e.g., United States v. Allen, 2012 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 123487, at *15-*16 (D.V.I. Aug. 30, 2      2012) (continuing trial during chickenpox outbreak where travel could cause infectious 3      public spread); People v. Tucker, 196 Cal. App. 4th 1313 (continuing trial where 4      defendant was at risk of contracting “infectious disease” and a trial could expose “trial
 5      court personnel, jurors, and witnesses” to H1N1, a “debilitating and perhaps life-6      threatening illness”); State v. Drewry, 946 A.2d 981, 987 (Me. 2008) (continuing case 7      where defendant under infectious disease quarantine); People v. Goode, 628 N.Y.S.2d 8      727, 728 (N.Y. App. 1995); State v. Ibarra, Case No. 54736, 1988 Ohio App. LEXIS 9      5256, at *2 (Ohio App. 1988).

11      2. Fidelity’s Preparation for Trial is Diligent

12      Since issuance of the initial 01-20 and 02-20 Orders, the reasonable safety 13      measures undertaken against COVID-19 have concurrently made extremely impractical, 14      if not impossible, any in-person discovery in this case. There is no way the parties could 15      have foreseen in December 2019 that COVID-19 orders and restrictions on travel would 16      hamper and prejudice discovery being accomplished by June 5, 2020, as set in the 17      Scheduling Order. Had the parties known such complications were imminent, certainly 18      they would have not given themselves only six months to complete discovery.

20      Presently, the parties are engaged in mutual written discovery with the hopes of 21      being able to schedule necessary depositions once travel restrictions are lifted and it is 22      deemed safe. Further, following discovery the parties may wish to again attempt 23      alternate dispute resolution. The current deadline for mediation per the Scheduling 24      Order is July 3, 2020, but it is wholly unclear whether the parties will be able to 25      complete depositions and discovery by that time.

1        And the parties are indeed actively and amiably pursuing discovery in this case.
 2 With mediation temporarily canceled, on April 14, 2020, Fidelity sent Plaintiff a First 3 Set of Interrogatories and Requests for Production. Womac Decl., ¶ 11. On May 4, 4 2020, Fidelity sent Plaintiff First Requests for Admission. Womac Decl., ¶ 12. At the 5 time of initial filing of this Motion, the undersigned had received no responses to any 6 discovery demands. Id., ¶ 13. However, upon being served copies of this Motion, 7 Plaintiff's counsel informed the undersigned that she had already sent responses to the 8 First Set of Interrogatories and Requests for Production on May 14, 2020. Id., ¶ 13.
 9 Since the parties have an agreed E-Service Agreement in place, the Responses were 10 emailed but routed by Fidelity's corporate IT team to a 14-day email quarantine 11 protecting against phishing and fraudulent emails. Id., ¶ 13. As a result, the email and 12 Responses were not received by the undersigned on May 14. Id., ¶ 13. Counsel for 13 Plaintiff has since forwarded the Responses by email, having resent them on May 30.
 14 Id., ¶ 13. Additionally, after filing of this Motion, Plaintiff sent Supplementary 15 Responses to the First Set of Interrogatories and Requests for Production, and 16 Responses to the First Requests for Admission. Id., ¶ 13. Fidelity has not had adequate
 17 time to review all the Responses to the Requests, but is concurrently preparing a motion
 18 to Compel Discovery on the Requests for Admission, finding them evasive and 19 incomplete. Id., ¶ 13. Plaintiff has been made aware and consented to the amendment
 20 to the motion and declaration. Id., ¶ 13.

21        In light of the current conditions and considering its request to Plaintiff for a
 22 stipulated continuance, Fidelity has not yet made any motion to compel discovery.
 23 Womac Decl., ¶ 14. Plaintiff sent a Request for Production of Documents to Fidelity on

1 or about May 6, 2020, 2 days after the deadline in the Scheduled Order for any
 2 discovery motions. Womac Decl., ¶ 15. Fidelity is preparing responses to those requests
 3 presently. Id., ¶ 16. The responses to the above discovery demands, and reasonable 4 written and testimonial follow-up discovery thereto, are instrumental to the 5 development of Plaintiff's case and Fidelity's defenses to Plaintiff's claims.

7       3. Delaying the Trial Would Satisfy the Need for the Continuance 8       Here, the need for the delay is directly related to additional time for discovery for 9 both sides. If the pre-trial dates are continued with the Court entering an Amended 10 Schedule Order, the discovery deadline will be extended a reasonable amount of time 11 permitting the parties to adequately respond to the pending written discovery, follow up 12 with appropriate motions and supplementation, and schedule depositions, as needed, of 13 relevant witnesses. Discovery is, without question, a useful purpose for a continuance.

 14

15       4. A Continuance Will Not Inconvenience the Court, Plaintiff or Witnesses

16       COVID-19 has inconvenienced, interrupted and generally frustrated American 17 society, including our judicial system. The Orders make clear that this great Court 18 remains shut to the public until July 31, 2020 at the earliest. While no trial has been set 19 in this case, neither the parties nor the Court contemplated cancelation of most all 20 settings in the docket for months at a time while the State of Washington's Stay Home, 21 Stay Safe Order is in effect.
 22

23       Rather, a continuance in this case will likely serve to alleviate the Court's docket 24 when matters begin to be rescheduled post-July 31. Moreover, Plaintiff will not be 25 prejudiced since this matter is a recoupment case between two insurance companies, presenting no imminent or pressing demand for resolution that cannot wait an

1 additional reasonable time. Witness travel within Washington or to/from Washington 2 is restricted under existing State mandates because of COVID-19, and no witnesses are 3 inconvenienced by a reasonable set-over of the trial date.

4 5. A Continuance Will not Unduly Prejudice Plaintiff, and the Denial of a Continuance Will Prejudice Defendant

6 If the dates are not continued, neither party will be able to complete adequate 7 discovery in this case. Again, as stated above, there are multiple pending written 8 discovery demands presently pending from both sides. The fact that the discovery 9 demands were sent in April and May 2020 is both directly and indirectly related to the 10 Orders and general restrictions on travel imposed and caused by COVID-19. As it 11 stands, under the existing Scheduling Order, neither side can even file a motion related 12 to discovery right now, even though both sides are presently preparing responses that 13 may be objected to or demand Court intervention. Without responses to the written 14 discovery, depositions cannot be scheduled. Both the written discovery and depositions 15 are absolutely critical to the defenses in the litigation and without them, Defendant will 16 most certainly be prejudiced.

17 On the other hand, Plaintiff can claim no prejudice by a reasonable continuance 18 of the current deadlines, since there is no need for urgency or expediency in this 19 collection case for attorneys' fees already spent in defense of the Lawsuit. It is unknown 20 whether any witnesses can travel for depositions anywhere in/out of the State of 21 Washington for non-essential matters, which poses equal challenges to both sides and 22 thus can't be deemed prejudicial to either. Completion of adequate and meaningful 23 discovery further serves the purpose of rescheduling a mediation, something initially

1 canceled in this case specifically because of the COVID-19 outbreak and pending 2 discovery questions.

3 Defendant sought a stipulation from Plaintiff to continue the dates in the 4 Scheduling Order, but was advised it would not be recommended. Womac Decl., ¶__.
5 Counsel for each party in this case have worked well together thus far to accommodate 6 each other's conflicts, and this is the first request for a continuance made of the dates by 7 either party in this case.

9 C. Conclusion

10 For the foregoing reasons, Fidelity respectfully requests the Court grant at least 11 120 additional days on all pretrial dates set now on the Initial Pretrial Scheduling Order 12 relating to discovery, dispositive motions, mediation and trial/trial filings.
